Dive Sites

Maratua Island is surrounded by a spectacular U-shaped coral atoll, featuring a tranquil lagoon on one side and dramatic drop-offs with vibrant coral reefs on the other. Its crystal-clear waters are home to an impressive variety of marine life, including barracuda, dogtooth tuna, giant trevally, Spanish mackerel, bumphead parrotfish, batfish, and several shark species, such as grey reef, whitetip reef, blacktip reef, and nurse sharks.

Just steps from the resort, Maratua Seaview Resort's house reef offers a fascinating world of macro marine life. Divers can discover tiny treasures such as Shaun the Sheep sea slugs (Costasiella kuroshimae), Cyerce nigra, colourful nudibranchs, shrimps, crabs, and countless other remarkable reef creatures.

Kakaban Island is famous for its unique Jellyfish Lake, home to three fascinating species of jellyfish: moon jellyfish (Aurelia aurita), spotted jellyfish (Mastigias papua), and box jellyfish (Tripedalia cystophora). A short walk through the island's lush tropical forest leads to this extraordinary natural wonder, where visitors can swim among stingless jellyfish.

Beyond the lake, Kakaban offers pristine coral reefs and dramatic wall dives teeming with marine life. Divers may encounter impressive schools of barracuda and jackfish, along with whitetip reef sharks, blacktip reef sharks, grey reef sharks, and occasional sightings of thresher and leopard sharks. With its rich biodiversity and breathtaking underwater scenery, Kakaban Island promises an unforgettable experience for divers and nature lovers alike.

Sangalaki Island is one of Indonesia's important green sea turtle nesting sanctuaries, where turtles regularly come ashore to lay their eggs and hatchlings make their way to the ocean. The island is also famous for graceful manta ray encounters throughout the year, with September and October offering particularly good opportunities for sightings. A must-visit destination for divers and nature lovers alike.
